Cosentino is dedicated to ensuring NARI members are the smartest people in the room where surfacing materials are concerned, and that they are equipped with the necessary resources and capabilities to be successful in their marketplace.

Cosentino substantially invests in developing new technologies and products that are world-class and lead the industry in style, fabrication, originality, and functionality. By generously opening its design centers as host locations for NARI local and National events throughout the United States, NARI members gain cutting edge insight into the most contemporary ways to serve the industry and consumers. Never satisfied with the status quo, Cosentino is always creating new showroom experiences that impress. Cosentino actively promotes the value of engaging with a NARI member to its fabricator partners and the public.

Through their generous sponsorships of NARI National events, NARI can bring together the industry's best to network, learn, engage, and thrive as a professional community.

This year, Cosentino graciously hosted a delegation of NARI National leaders at their headquarters operations in Spain. The delegation met with members of the Cosentino family, toured its quarries, manufacturing and distribution facilities, and witnessed the fantastic technological capabilities the company possesses. Also, Cosentino was instrumental in the nomination of the National Association of the Remodeling industry's designation as the recipient of the 32nd Edition of the International Macael Award in Spain. The prestigious Macael Award elevates NARI's brand excellence and broadens the awareness of the associations' mission on an international level that has never been witnessed before.

Through the values that Cosentino and NARI share, our members of the professional remodeling industry are able to be the gold standard that each of our organizations is recognized for in the industry.
